International women's day was conducted at Davangere University on 8th March 2019. Honorable Vice Chancellor Prof. S V Halse presided over the function. Prof. Geetha Bali, Former vice Chancellor, Akkamahadevi Women's University, Bijapur was Chief guest for the programme. Prof. Kannan, registrar and Prof. Basavaraj Banakar, Regitrar Evaluation were the patron. Prof. Gayathri Devraj organized this programme and all the faculty and students participated in this event.

Prof. Geetha Bali as vice chancellor of Karnataka State Women's university, has implemented a number of innovative programmes including the establishment of "Koushalya Women's Technology Park", the only one of its kind in any Indian University, with a variety of facilities serving as skill training, awareness creating and research centres as well as business incubators enabling women to benefit from science and technology. She was awarded Star News B School award 2011. She has served the Indian Science Congress Association in various capacities as chapter convenor, sectional president and member of the governing bodies before being elected as the 99th General President. She is the fourth woman to be so elected. She is a Fellow of the National Academy of Sciences, India. She was responsible for establishing strong linkages between a number of reputed institutions in the USA and Bangalore University resulting in faculty and student exchange and training programmes and collaborative research and she served as Asia coordinator for a multinational project funded by USDA. USA. Such an eminent personality addressed Davangere University Faculty and students on the occasion of International Women's day. She expressed that weak woman is not just the loss for her but is a loss for the society. Although women are facing inequality, present day women are making use of the opportunities in present education system for succeeding in various fields. Women have to change their attitude towards life. She said women have to take up the leadership. She motivated the young female students to nourish their talents and succeed in their fields.

Neak woman is loss for society'

ANGERE: Karnataka State amahadevi Women's Unisity former vice-chancellor eta Bali said, it has become perative for women to work rd to survive and earn equalvin society.

Speaking after inauguratig the International Women's bay programme organised at Davangere University here on Saturday, she said if a womanis weak, it is not her failure, but of an entire society and country, as it affects the development of the entire country.

Women who have been subjected to inequality since time immemorial. However, in the past few years, women have been making use of opportunities presented by today's education system and is ensuring that she succeeds in all the fields.

She lamented that in spite of her achievements, women have not been subjected to objectification and are being used as medium that can sell brands, she said and added that women has embroiled in the mood of the society to portray her as a fantasy or unnecessarily being used in commercials for her sex-appeal. Geeta said that few women are falling behind, even if they are provided with power and position. "This is an area of concern for the educated women. They have to take up leadership roles," she said. A woman has to take up all

A woman has to take up all the responsibilities without compromising on ethics. Our goal is to maintain gender equalityby creating opportunities instead of saying that there is a shortage of opportunities. Davanagere University Davanagere University Vice-Chancellor S V Halase, Registrar P Kannan, spoke on the occasion. Basavaraj Banakar, Gayatri Devarajah and students were present on the occasion.
